The Lucky in Love Date

We see a lot of green in the month of March so this date uses that to the fullest. Sometimes just taking some time and a fun theme can net some much needed time to connect.

What you'll need:

Lime Sherbet

Sprite

Wine glasses or pretty water goblets

(If you try to stay away from sugar, you might enjoy some sparkling water with a drop of green food coloring in it!)

Variety of green food such as: Green candy, gum, Andes mints, or guacamole and chips.

What you'll do:

Make lime sherbet floats in pretty glasses, set out your food, and enjoy some time together sharing why you're "lucky in love."

Here are some conversation starters:

I'm lucky in love because you're so _____.

I'm lucky in love because you are a fabulous _____.

I'm lucky in love because of how you _____.

If you want to add some fun to the night, play a game of Uno and make a rule that you have to kiss every time a green card is played.

If you want to add some spice to the date, you might invite your spouse to a "Get Lucky" date with you. Start out with the "lucky in love" conversation, move to the Uno game and every time a green card is played you each have to remove a piece of clothing, then let yourselves move into a time of love-making.

Enjoy!
